

from left, Mohamed Omar, four, Phoebe Berko, four, Aman Rahman, five, Valentina Gutierrez, four, Kyrie Ennis, four and Laurine Makoto, four, wearing their jackets

OSMAN DEEN/23465/6

It's all bright on the night

BE SAFE, be seen this winter.

This was message to pupils from children's television presenter Angelica Bell, from CBBC show Xchange.

She visited Jubilee Primary School in Tulse Hill on Monday, the day after the clocks went back, to hand out reflective jackets to children.

Last year, 66 children were injured in road accidents in Lambeth and the council wants to reduce this figure by making it easier for drivers to see kids.

Councillor Anthony Bottrill, Lambeth council's executive member for education, said: "Many children in Lambeth do not wear bright clothing during the winter months and are therefore at risk of becoming a casualty when crossing the road on their journey to and from school.

By Education Reporter ZARA BISHOP

"We hope this will encourage parents to dress their children in bright colours during the day and reflective clothing when it gets dark."

